invaluable advocate,—the country a brave and patriotic defender, and the church a devout and consistent member.

Resolved, That while it behooves us to bow submissively to the bereavaments that Providence may ordain, we nevertheless mourn the less of him whose sentiments were always exalted, whose friendship was always true, whose sympathy was always tender toward the unfortunate, or the nuhappy, and whose solicitude was always more for the good of markind than for the advancement of himself.

Resolved, That in laying down the comforts of a quiet home, and offering himself to the military ranks of his country as a private soldier, to do battle in defense of his country and the Constitution, Col. Andrews set an example of patriotic devotedness that time castot obliserate, nor political resolutions destroy.

Resolved, That through all his history, his life was a continued and falliful exposition of his Christian profession; that his death was a noble sacrifice to his country, and that his name be enrolled in our memories as among the soldiers of the Cooss, and the Martyrs of Republican Liberty.

Sin—Yours of the 19th inst. is at hand. The citizens of Ohio should interfere by their influence to prevent recruiting officers of other States enlisting men in this State. Thousands have thus gone, for whom Ohio has no credit, and whose place must be supplied if we should ever be compelled to draft. Hesides, these men, irresponsible to our authorities, interfere with our plans for conducting the recruiting service, and make it impossible for us to know how many should be authorized in the several counties.
